

DATE: Feb 1, 2012

TIME: 7:00-8:00PM

LOCATION: Oregon Trail

Meeting room

2905 Graham Rd Stow, Oh. 44224

CONTACT Missy 330 357-7421 or

Pete 330 686-7638

Stepping out of Yourself, and into your Audience: Finding Relevance in the Connection

Presented by:

Jenilee Grabenhorst,
Distinguished Toastmaster.

A woman in a pink shirt and camouflage shorts is standing on a pink banner that reads "Public Speaking BOOT CAMP". She is wearing black boots. The background is a blue sky with white clouds and a classical column. The banner is tilted upwards from left to right.

Public Speaking
BOOT CAMP

Being able to truly connect and engage your audience is essential if you want to have impact as a speaker. If you want to ensure the audience gets your message, and is truly inspired by your words, then you must build that connection and trust first. Great messages and important information is easily lost if you fail to build rapport.

This speaking workshop will leave you with several ways to help build that important connection with your audience. Come prepared to speak on any topic for 1-2 minutes, and receive instant feedback.